

Paige Cornetet is a fourth-generation business owner, Greenhouse Fabrics, and entrepreneur, Millennial Guru. Growing up around fabrics, chocolate, and family, who helped transfer human and intellectual capital to the next generation, she saw a big need for family education. Millennial Guru was founded with the intention to help bridge the gap of generations, and help teach families how to protect and preserve their financial, human and intellectual capital. They focus on family business, family money, and family philanthropy starting with the individual person then going larger to the family helping to make an impact. As family council chair Paige brings 90 years of how to successfully transfer wisdom down within families.
